Ethiopian Criminal Law is a pioneering textbook that presents the general principles and specific offences of Ethiopian criminal law based on a systematic approach and consistent methodology. Chapters on the sources and history as well as the international dimension of criminal law in Ethiopia are included. Current case law is extensively incorporated and explained. Definitions, examples, and discussion questions make the book an essential reading for both students and scholars of criminal law, as well as practitioners and judges working in the field.

African Criminal Law Series publishes peer-reviewed monographs open access and aims to create a hub for criminal law in Africa. It emerged in the context of the African German Research Network for Transnational Criminal Justice which is based at Humboldt-Universität zu Berlin (Germany).

Dr. Marshet Tadesse Tessema is the Head of the Criminal Law and Justice Department and Assistant Professor of Law at Ethiopian Civil Service University. His research centers on international criminal justice, regionalization of international criminal law, economic crimes and transitional justice. He was a member of the Criminal Justice Working Group of the Ethiopian Government, is a graduate of the Universities of Jimma (Ethiopia) and the Western Cape (South Africa) and holds a PhD from Humboldt-Universität zu Berlin.

Markos Debebe is a Policy Researcher at the Federalism, Diversity Management, and Rule of Law Policy Studies Department of the Policy Studies Institute (Ethiopia). His research interests include international criminal law, human rights and constitutional law as well as legal theory. He has worked as a public prosecutor and lecturer in (criminal) law and is a graduate of the Universities of Jimma (Ethiopia), Addis Ababa (Ethiopia) and the Western Cape (South Africa).
